QUIRKY QUOTE

"For those on the pitch, it's good to hear the fans singing their name, their music. It motivates us to do our best on the pitch and help the team."

Sporting anthems are generally easy to sing, best performed in unison, and don't require instruments.

The songs don't have to be about sport!

FANTASTIC FACTS

Essentially, sports anthems become iconic because they connect to the people's one emotion that unifies everyone from communities to cities to entire nations. For example, recent domestic league matches have shown how each participating Pakistani city has its own theme song. An even better example would be Jazba Junoon by the great rock band Junoon.

According to filmmaker and Chand Tara Orchestra guitarist Babar sheikh, "A sports song should be such that it gets the adrenaline rush going inside you when you hear it! To make that impact on the audience it has to have the right hook and melody".
